The Epoch Times in the US is a pro-Trump, nonprofit news outlet established in 2013 by John Tang. Founded in Montreal, Quebec, Narcity Media Inc., founded by Charles Lapointe and his wife, owns and operates Narcity Canada, Narcity Toronto, Narcity Montreal, and other media platforms.

Principles, which are seen to represent a progressive or left-leaning stance, are owned entirely by the Bitove and Rivett families, whose annual report from 2020 states they operate Le Journal de Montreal. The company was founded in 2013 as a subsidiary of the Bitove Capital, which has diverse interests in real estate, technology, and media. The company is named after Leo Bitove, who purchased the rights to Cineplex Magazine, which previously owned local TV stations, newspapers, and movie theaters.

In addition to the iconic newspaper the company is named after, they also own the US newspaper chain McClatchy. The company's media division – Bell Media – has owned 100% of Rogers Media Inc. since 2010 and also own the US newspaper chain McClatchy.

As of now, the Epoch Times is the most popular alternative media platform in the US, with a readership of 369,000 people. The Epoch Times' digital platform, EpochNews.com, is a popular one among the right-wing audience, with a readership of 5.7 million users in the US.

The Epoch Times is part of the Epoch Media Group, which is headquartered in Hong Kong. The Epoch Media Group's parent company, China Media Group, is controlled by the Chinese government and is known for its pro-China stance.
