

IRB Website and Member Resources Review

This month we welcome a new IRB member and will have a refresher on the IRB website and IRB Member resources. You may wish to review them here:

1. HUA IRB Members page: This page provides an overview of the purpose and mission of the IRB, membership expectations, and links to essential resources. Some of these resources will be linked in this list.
 - a. Please note that some of the information on this page comes from our Human Research Protection Program (HRPP) Plan, our institutional guiding document for human subjects research protection.
2. IRB Member Handbook: This Handbook is a go-to resource for when you dive into a review. It begins with some specific tips you should consider when reading the materials in your role as a reviewer. It also includes guidance on basic ethical principles and some of our more common standard operating procedures that come up during Board meetings.
3. IRB Member Training: General training videos for IRB membership and voting requirements as well as IRB review basics. Continuing education topics that have been covered in recent meetings may be found here, and general resources may be found here. Of particular note on the resources page is the IRB Members ESTR Guide, which presents ESTR from the reviewer's perspective. Our visibility is different from what you may see on the researcher side.
4. IRB Meeting calendar for the academic year.