

Local Climate Pipeline Workshop
Harvard University
December 8, 2022

Location: Center for Government and International Studies Knafel (CGIS Knafel)
Schedule in U.S. Eastern Standard Time (UTC-5)

12:00 – 12:45 Lunch (Room: CGIS Café)

12:45 – 2:30 Research Presentations A (Room: K450)

12:45 – 1:15: Alexander Gard-Murray, Presentation + Q&A

1:15 – 1:45: Shanuki Tillekeratne, Presentation + Q&A

1:45 – 2:10: Quinn Lewis and Madeline Ranalli (12 minutes each)

2:10 – 2:30: Lewis and Ranalli Q&A

2:30 – 2:45 Body Break

2:45 – 5:00 Research Presentations B (Room: K450)

2:45 – 3:10: Ellyse Givens and Alexia Embiricos (12 minutes each)

3:10 – 3:30: Givens and Embiricos Q&A

3:30 – 4:00: Aleksandra Conevska, Presentation + Q&A

4:00 – 4:30: Elizabeth Thom, Presentation + Q&A

4:30 – 5:00: Magdalena Larrebourg, Presentation + Q&A

Presentations

Madeline Ranalli, Harvard College, “Lawn Chair Environmentalism: Protecting High Emissions Land Use Policy in American Suburb”

Quinn Lewis, Harvard College, “How does interest group structure determine climate policy outcomes?”

Magdalena Larreboure, Harvard Kennedy School, “From natural disaster to climate law: a 5-year journey”

Elizabeth Thom, Harvard Government Department, “Exploring the Politics of Redistribution: Evidence from SSDI in Communities with Extractive Industry Ties”

Aleksandra Conevska, Harvard Government Department, “When are parties good for the environment? Understanding green party influence on environmental policy”

Ellyse Givens, Brown University, “Cultivating Green Minds: Two San Diego School Districts & Their Climate Efforts”

Alexia Embiricos, Brown University, “Climate Leaders and Laggards in the Retail Industry: Patagonia vs. H&M”

Alexander Gard Murray, Brown University Watson Institute, “Fuzzy Shocks”

Shanuki Tillekeratne, Brown Political Science Department, “Competition and Cooperation in the New Global Economy”