

CALL FOR PAPERS

2024 CONFERENCE

Hosted at Princeton University

The Association for Global Political Thought is an international, interdisciplinary, and intercollegiate project founded in 2021, supported by humanists and social scientists from global institutions. We are excited to announce that after our inaugural conference at Harvard University (April 8-9, 2022), we will co-host our second conference on Friday-Saturday, April 26-27, 2024, at Princeton University.

The keynote address is to be delivered by Anna Stilz (Laurance S. Rockefeller Professor of Politics and the University Center for Human Values), a member of the Association for Global Political Thought's advisory council, on the subject of "Climate Displacement and Territorial Justice."

We welcome submissions that seek to enrich the study of political, social, and international thought; expand the scopes of political traditions and their languages; interrogate the discipline's constitutive exclusions and limits of existing methods of inquiry; or address the theoretical and historical foundations of contemporary global political predicaments.

More information about the Association, including examples of work that have been presented in our seminar series, and the panels of our inaugural conference, may be found on our website.

Submissions are due by February 13th, 2024 at midnight EST and should be sent to globalpoliticalthought@g.harvard.edu. Applicants will receive a response in late February.

Length: Papers must not exceed 12,000 words, including citations.

Formatting: Submissions, in either PDF or MS word documents, should be formatted consistently and for blind review. We suggest 12-pt font and double-spacing. Notes and bibliography may be in any style but must be consistent.

Funding: Partial Funding may be available, on the basis from need, from our collaborators at the Princeton University's Center for Human Values.
